

I am opposed to this measure. This appears not to stop internet piracy but rather remove fair use for the average consumer. Not only will it prevent the average person from being able to time shift programming as their time needs require, it will also force everyone to scrap all existing receiving equipment and purchase new proprietary equipment at an even higher price than the original equipment.